One Connection, One Surprise, One Question

As you read, note one connection you made to the book for any reason, one passage or idea from the text that you found interesting or surprising, and one question that you have to bring to your group conversation. Use this handout to write your responses, and bring them to our group conversation on Wednesday.

Feel free to be flexible in with your response. For example, you may have several questions and no connection. Plan to share these in your group conversations in class.
